“ I am terribly sorry for your loss. I was just informed of this tragedy. I had the pleasure of working with Chad at Emporia State University in the athletic training program. Chad was a solid individual and set a high standard for the new student assistants to try and emulate. I enjoyed talking to him not only professionally, but also personally. He was very modest and self-effacing. I hope both he, and you, have found some peace. I will remember you all in my prayers.

“ Dear Jacob,
Mrs. Dibbern told me on Friday of last week what happened, while I was in for Mr. Thomas. I lost a good friend several years ago, and although he was not my brother, I loved him like one and the loss is still huge, even after 16 years. When something unbearable happens, God gives us fiends who will drop to their knees and pray for the strength needed to survive. I am praying for you, Jacob. Know that there are many others. God will prove Himself far more compassionate and strong than you've ever known Him to be.
With Deepest Sympathy,
Mrs. Hall

“ You do not know me and I did not know Chad personally, but it is obvious that he was just the kind of young man I would have loved knowing. I recently lost a good friend in similar circumstances. I don't fully understand her choice to leave us, but I do feel my friend found her peace and would want those of us left behind to be strong and do the same. May we all find strength in precious memories when we need something to sustain us and work to find the peace they now know. Bless all of you!

“ Diane:
We were sad to hear of Chad's passing. Chad was a very special person to those of us in the Athletic Training program at Emporia State University. He was a very caring and sincere person with a great deal of integrity. Chad was one of our most capable and trusted athletic training students. We know you and Chad's family are people of great strength and will find peace in the memories you have of Chad. We will pray for Chad and his family.

“ I was shocked to hear his name mentioned this morning at church. I went to high school with Chad and even though we didn't hang around in the same group he was always so nice to everyone.

He was always so alive and always smiling it seemed.

My thoughts and prayers go out to his entire family/friends.

“ *John and Suzanne,
Your "good ol' neighbors" on Plass are also praying for you and your families during this very difficult time.
We've experienced enough deaths of friends and family members that we feel qualified to serve as good shoulders to cry on when the need arises. Chad will always be part of those who even knew him briefly. We're all looking forward to a great reunion 'in our Father's house'. May God comfort you and those you love with His spirit until that day.*

“ I am deeply saddened to hear of your family's loss. I am Jacob's math teacher, and he always spoke so kindly and proud of his big brother. I also work with Diane's mother, therefore it stings twice as bad. I pray and will continue to pray for your family, especially that wonderful son you have, Jacob. May God heal your hearts.

“ John ,Sue and family: We are so sorry to hear about Chad. He will be missed by all of us that watched him grow from the little boy into the man he had become. He was a great kid and I know he was an even better young man because of the wonderful family he had that loved him so much. Our thoughts are with you.

“ To the family of Chad,

I am praying for you. I've known Chad since Stout, where he was the fastest and most calmly collected kid in school. My family just went through the same thing you are and I offer words of encouragement and support, and that although Chad will always be missed, he can be found instantly in your hearts and thoughts and the wonderful memories you will always keep with you. Rejoice in the beauty of the place he now calls home and may God's arms hold you close now and forever. Love, Andy

“ We are sorry to hear of your loss. I did not know Chad that well. I could tell by your stories you were a close knit family. I am sure with the loss of Chad this will not change that. This will even make you closer and a more loving family.

The memories will always be there, you just have to look into your hearts where the memories are safely locked away. Look to the sky where there is another angel is among us and he is watching over his family.

God Bless you (Chad) and your family. DT
