““Old man Dan” was as honest as they come. He made no bones about anything he liked or didn't, and you never had to guess what he thought. He was unapologetically one of a kind and life won't be the same without him.

We love him, we'll miss him, and we won't ever forget him.

“Something's in this life will never understand, one belief I draw solace and strength from is, "nothing happens in Gods world by accident". Dan shot from the hip, you knew where he stood and never wavered, "take me for who I am" Dan was true to himself but would be the first to help someone, two qualities that command respect. The why is the hardest, for all we know God decided Earnhardt Sr. needed a hunting buddy, if that's the case he couldn't of gotten a better one.
