Kandis... it's Amy. Not a second goes by that I wish you were here. You were here for me and anyone saying you needed to do what would make God happy. I'm very sick now. It won't be that long and I'll be at Brennan where Mary will have me cremated. I love you.

“ I'm so sorry to hear of Kandis' passing. I hadn't seen her in many years but was able to reconnect with her a few years ago. I have many happy and wonderful memories with and of her, many parties, sorority pledge week and cutting classes to just talk. She was a great person and always fun to be around

“ My best friend.... You’ve gone and I love and miss you! I know I’ll be in shock till it truly hits me. You and I have a ton of stories over the years we’ve laughed at and done together. You were my rock as I was yours. I could tell a story but there’s too many to pick from. No one will ever know the true real friends we were and all the stories and I have an empty void. I look at “ the throne” and see you there. Only you and I know “ the throne”. Thank you for being my best friend. I’m sure by now Kathy is really bugging you about the things she loved to complain about that made you go nuts but laugh. I’m glad she’s with you. But I want you here!!! Trenton..... my other son..... Katie my other daughter..... we’re here for you both and love you both so much. You’ve both made Kandis proud. And I thank you Mary Brennan for your Christianity. Love forever, Amy and Brian.
