“ Randy and family, I am so sorry I am just now seeing this but I worked with you at DCF. She was a wonderful coworker and friend we had many a good laugh and talked together visits together. She always knew I was not it smart and when I would need her help she would just tell me to get up and she would just sit at my computer and fix whatever I screwed up. She didn't try to explain it she just took care of it. She made the workplace fun. I can assure you she always loved her family and you she talked about you and had pictures in her office and all your adventures. She and I both had health issues such as heart attacks and cancer and different things and we would always check in with each other and encourage each other. It broke my heart to see this, but I know she's at rest now and home with God and will be waiting for you. May the fact that she is restored and no longer suffering Health comfort you and may the promise of God's eternal life provides you peace and many wonderful memories sustain you just know she had many people that you never even knew that thought the world of her and will be keeping you in our prayers

“ My deepest condolences to the Townsend family. I worked with Sue at DCF and she unofficially made me a part of the IT team as our departments were next to each other. She was a good person always willing to help. She would always talk about her family and was willing to lend a hand even outside of work. My thoughts and prayers are with you. Sylvia Ortiz

“ I feel so fortunate that Sue and I were able to spend time together during work at KFMC and away from work. We enjoyed the best TGIFs. We shared the same desire to let loose when traveling away from the office for meetings in Baltimore. We took advantage of adding a few days to a Baltimore conference in 2003 and traveled with 4 other co-workers to New York City. We stayed near Times Square and had a great time exploring the city and getting up at 5:00 am so we could be in front of the line to stand outside during the Today Show. We were captured on TV during Seal's performance. I will miss her so much.
