“ Mom,

You are a Mother of so many good qualities, you taught me so much and gave so many life lessons that made me the person that I am today. You brought so much love to my heart, though abandoned you took me in, and loved me, when I thought love was far from me. The life lessons of how to be a good mother and wife to my family was taught by you. You were there for all the hard things I had to face. You never forgotten me and you always remembered the important things to me. You walked by my side and never let me go. You are the only mother I will ever know and you filled my heart with so much love and compassion. I will always carry you in my heart. Thank you for all the loving memories you gave me to carry on each day in my life. You will never be forgotten. Thank you for being the mother I never had, and a grandparent to my children. I will carry your hugs and bright smile with me always. Dad, thank you for being my father and guiding me through this life. You both have given me a chance to know what a family is, and brought so much love to my life. I love you so very much.

MY

“ Grandma was so full of love and always remembered every birthday and anniversary. I remember the times she would pick us up in the old black station wagon and she would giggle with us that she had to sit on phone books to see over the steering wheel. She would take us for a Wendy's Frosty, her favorite, and make us tuna salad sandwiches (my favorite) to go to the lake and paddle boat. I loved her school lunches she made because it was more than the goodies in the bag, she would always put a little note of love with it, to get us through the day of missing mom of bringing in the life our brother. She touched my life in so many ways and her and grandpa was such an inspiration of what I wanted my married life to be. I will miss her sweet voice and all the hugs she gave and all the laughs we had. I know she truly loves us and has always been the only grandmother I have truly ever known. She is greatly missed and I will always carry her in my heart and never let her go. Grandma, thanks for all the love and compassion you gave me in my life. You touched the lives of so many and truly you are an inspiration of what Love means. Grandpa, I love you very much and you too have touched our lives and I will always love you and grandma. Thank you for all of your love.

“ I am so very sorry to learn that Sue Tyler is gone. Please accept my sympathy for Bill and all her children and grandchildren.

Sue was my cousin. My father, John Lovett, was her uncle. Although I did not see Sue face to face very often in our lives, we wrote each other letters, and Sue remembered my birthday and Christmas. She included handwritten letters with her cards, and news about Natty Gann and the llamas when she still had them, and advice about using a riding mower on a hill when I first got one. I really admire all the things she did in her life, and I will miss hearing from her very much.

“ Jerry, Tannia & Family: We are so very sorry for your loss of Sue. Words are never adequate in times such as these. The things I personally remember about her were her love for her lamas and visiting w/ her so many times when she helped me in her cake & candy shop. May God surround you w/ His love, fill you w/ His peace, and send healing for your hearts during this painful time. Please know that we are here for you if there is anything at all that we can do to help. Love & prayers. - Jacque Mankin / Clarence Irish
